Welcome to Robotics Engineering!

Are you an International student and did you choose the University of Genoa to continue your studies in Italy?

The international students office (SASS) welcomes you and informs you that its staff is at your disposal and assists you in:

- Carrying out the administrative procedures linked to your enrolment
- Obtaining all documents useful for a regular stay in Italy (i.e. residence permit, tax code)
- Looking for an accommodation.

Therefore, we invite you to read carefully the following pages and we remind you that:

- You are a university student only when you confirm your enrolment and get your student card
- If you are an Extra EU student, you must submit your request of residence permit issue within 8 days from your arrival in Italy
- After enrolment confirmation, you must draw up your study plan: the student's help desk (Sportello dello studente) in your School can help you and give you all the information you need.
- You must activate your mailbox (following the instructions you can find at the following link https://servizionline.unige.it/mail/) so that you will be allowed to receive all communications from the university
- You must submit the ISEE certification: find out how you can do that and check the deadlines on UNIGE website (www.studenti.unige.it/tasse/certificazione/)
- You must give your address in Genoa and your mobile phone number to the SASS office as soon as possible.

ABOUT

Robotics Engineering is a study program associated with two international programs. Thanks to the European Master on Advanced Robotics (EMARO) and to the Japan-Europe Master on Advanced Robotics (JEMARO) students attend each year in a different University part of the EMARO/JEMARO consortium. Students enrolled as part of Robotics Engineering attend the whole degree in UniGe. However, they share the same classes and are subject to the same activities and workload as EMARO/JEMARO students. Robotics Engineering, completely taught in English, has a unique structure compliant with international standards.

LEARNING BY DOING

Robotics Engineering adopts the successful EMARO philosophy of learning via reflection on doing, as a paradigm complementary to the more traditional separation between teaching and practice. Theoretical studies are interleaved with lab-based practical and experimental work

CAREER PERSPECTIVES

Robotics Engineering seeks to produce professional figures in robotics, artificial intelligence, mechatronics, and automation.

Research-oriented careers can be sought as Ph.D. studies in autonomous robotics, smart manufacturing, artificial intelligence.

Scenarios explicitly considered in the program include factory automation (Industry 4.0), intelligent transportation (autonomous cars, railways, ships and space vehicles), ambient intelligence (smart environments, smart cities, Internet of Things), human-robot interaction, as well as software-based systems.

HOW TO APPLY

You have to send to the programme coordinator following documents:

- CV with identity photo
- Academic degree and transcripts of all university studies with translation into English, i.e. Bachelor, Master or equivalent. If the degree has not be obtained yet, a certificate from the institution indicating the situation of the student and the expected date of graduation must be provided
- Motivation letter
- Recognized International English test Certificate, at least level B2, not older than 3 years: TOEFL, Cambridge Advanced English Test, IELTS, TOEIC. No other test is recognized. This document is not required if the language of instruction of your studies is English. The fact must be certified by an official document or letter from the University. In that case, submitting an English Test Certificate is not compulsory, but can add value to your application. If you should not have any English Certificate, you can enroll to the CLAT B2 English test, which is fee-free for Robotics Engineering students – or prospective ones- at the following link: http://www.clat.unige.it/test_inglese_B2_per_lauree_magistrali

After the selection procedure, the selected students will be informed about the following steps.

Please note that the approximate deadline for application in the academic year 2019-2020 is May 2020.

EMARO

The European Master on Advanced Robotics is an integrated Master's course designed and conducted by partner institutions sharing a common vision of Robotics:

- University of Genoa (Italy)
- Centrale Nantes (France)
- Warsaw University of Technology (Poland)

The programme of study lasts two academic years (120 ECTS) split into four equally loaded semesters. Starting from 2020-2021, students interested in the EMARO program, can apply to the local MSc and they are first selected for the local master program.

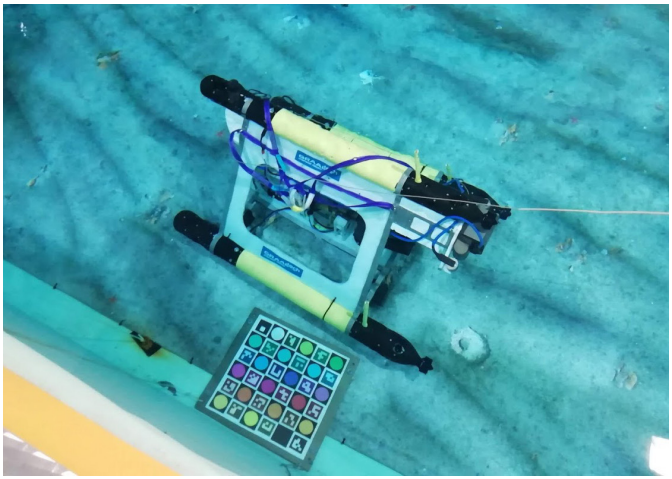

For students enrolled in Robotics Engineering, at the end of M1 it is possible to apply to become an EMARO student, with mandatory second year mobility to a Consortium partner. Becoming an EMARO student, the student will have to accept EMARO rules, pay the tuition fees applicable at the M2 Hosting Institution and will get a double degree.

A limited number of positions are available (less than 5 each year) and students will be selected on the basis of performance, average grading, etc. Therefore students attend the EMARO programme at at least two different partner institutions: the first two semesters in one European institution and the second two semesters in another European institution.

Another mobility during the fourth semester to an Asian partner or to an industrial partner is possible.

Students graduating from the EMARO Master's course are awarded two Master's degrees from the institutions where they studied, as well as a Diploma Supplement. The degrees obtained are officially recognized and give full access to PhD study programmes.

JEMARO

JEMARO is the first joint Japan-Europe programme offering high-level academic and industrial training across the whole span of robotics thanks to a 2-year integrated programme (120 ECTS or 30 Japanese Credits) between:

- University of Genoa (Italy)
- Centrale Nantes (France)
- Warsaw University of Technology (Poland)
- Keio University (Japan)

The student mobility path will allow a first year spread across the European partners and the second year in Japan where all students will remain together helping them to form a close-knit group. Students who graduate from the JEMARO master's course will obtain two master's degrees, one from a European country and the other from Japan (Keio University). The degrees are officially recognised and give full access to PhD study programmes.

If you are an EMARO/JEMARO student, you should already have received the Acceptance Letter which entitles you to apply for the Italian Visa by the Italian Embassy or Consulate in your Country.

GETTING TO GENOA

You can reach Genoa by plane thanks to its international airport Cristoforo Colombo, located near to the city center. If you land in any airport of Milan, there are many bus and train connections to Genoa.
VOLABUS is the shuttle bus service departing from Cristoforo Colombo airport to Brignole and Principe Train Stations, crossing the city centre and in 30 minutes you can get to the airport or to the city center for €6. Learn more: https://www.airport.genova.it/en/

If you need it, the University of Genoa offers international students a pick-up service. The members of the Erasmus Genoa Group (GEG) will pick you up at the Cristoforo Colombo airport or at the "Piazza Principe" station in Genoa and will bring you to your accommodation or to the University campus. For more information refer to http://esngenova.it/?q=news/pick-0 or write an email to genova@esn.it.

THE RESIDENCE PERMIT

If a student holds a visa for study purposes and stays in Italy for more than 90 days, he/she must request a residence permit. If he/she does not complete his/her studies before the residence permit expires, he/she will have to request the renewal of his/her residence permit.
The residence permit is issued to foreign citizens coming from Extra EU countries who attend a course – university or training course – In Italy, after they were granted a visa for study purposes from the Italian Embassy or Consulate in their country of origin or residence. Every year, a limited number of places is available for International students who want to enrol in University or training courses in Italy, in relation to the maximum number of visa for study purposes that can be granted.

ISSUE AND RENEWAL

When you enter Italy with a visa for study purposes, you must submit your request of residence permit to the competent Questura, through the kit available at SASS Office.
The first residence permit for study purposes, issued to university students who entered Italy with a visa – including students attending a master or Phd course – has a limited duration, usually corresponding to entry visa expiration.

- You must submit your first request of residence permit within the first 8 days from your arrival in Italy, whereas you can submit your request of renewal from 2 months before to 2 months after your residence permit expiry date.
- The receipt of your request of issue/renewal entitles you to enjoy all the rights related to the possession of a residence permit and certifies that you correctly submitted your application but, unlike the residence permit, it does not allow you to travel to another Schengen area country.

The owner of a residence permit for study purposes (university or training) is allowed to:

- travel to the other Schengen area countries for period shorter than three months without fulfilling any formal obligation;
- submit application for family reunion;
- be registered with the Health National Service;

- have a part time job like Italian citizens, provided that he/she does not work more than 20 hours per week;
- enjoy all the welfare benefits deriving from a regular employment contract.

MAIN STEPS

After filling in the form contained in the residence permit kit, you will have to go to the post office and send it. The Post Office will fix an appointment for you to go to Questura where you will be fingerprinted. Approximately 40 days later, you will be able to get your residence permit card.

Documents required for the issue of a residence permit for study purposes:

- The Kit for the request of residence permit, which can be collected for free at SASS Office;
- Copy of all the pages of the passport;

Note: The International student who enters Italy for the first time and applies for the issue of a one-year-long residence permit must subscribe the integration agreement. The integration agreement is a measure taken to enhance the integration of foreign citizens in Italy. University students are exempt from attending the test of knowledge of the Italian language and civic and culture and life in Italy.

EU students, who have been staying in Italy for more than 3 months, must apply at the Civil Registry office in order to be registered and receive a certificate confirming their stay.

EU students come to Italy with their European Health Service card issued in their country of residence and they do not need to apply to the National Health Service (SSN). If they need to undertake medical examinations, they can address any general practitioner free of charge (a list of general practitioners is available upon request at the International Students Office). The General practitioner can prescribe medicines or a specific examination. Specific examinations must be booked through a phone call to CUP (Central Reservations office) tel. 800098543 (free number from fixed-line and mobile) from 8.00 a.m. to 06.00 p.m.
